EMPEROR WILLIAM'S ARMIES ADVANCING WITHIN STRIKING DISTANCE OF FRENCH CAPITAL.

THOUSANDS LEAVE CITY

Seat of Government May Be Removed to Bordeaux, Says Washington Report—Troops Are Assigned to Forts Which Guard City.

Terrific fighting continues on the Austro-Russian frontier. Both the combined Austrian and German force and the Russian armies claim an advantage. Berlin reports the capture of 30,000 Russians.

From Austrian sources it is stated that the Russians are being pursued in the direction of Lublin in Russian Poland. Earlier dispatches from St. Petersburg state that the Austrians were active chiefly in the vicinity of Lublin.

A news dispatch from St. Petersburg states that the Austrians were active chiefly in the vicinity of Lublin.

A news dispatch from St. Petersburg says that the Russian advance in East Prussia is proceeding and repeats an earlier Russian claim of successes in Galicia.

Fresh forces of Germans have appeared on the Prussian front, according to a British official report.

This bears out recent statements from Belgium that the Germans are withdrawing troops from their western front to reinforce the Austro-German lines in the east.

Up to noon today no official announcement had been made at London or Paris. News dispatches indicate that the Germans are pressing toward Paris and one army is within sixty miles of the French capital.

Paris is preparing for a siege. Outgoing trains are filled with non-combatants, while troops from the south and west are arriving to re-enforce the garrisons already in the range of the city's fortification.

Paris, August 31.—All night long troops from the south and west of France have been arriving at the capital and passing by rail around the city to the location in the encircling fortification to which they have been assigned.

There is great activity on the part of the municipal military administration in completing the details of the plans for the defense of Paris.

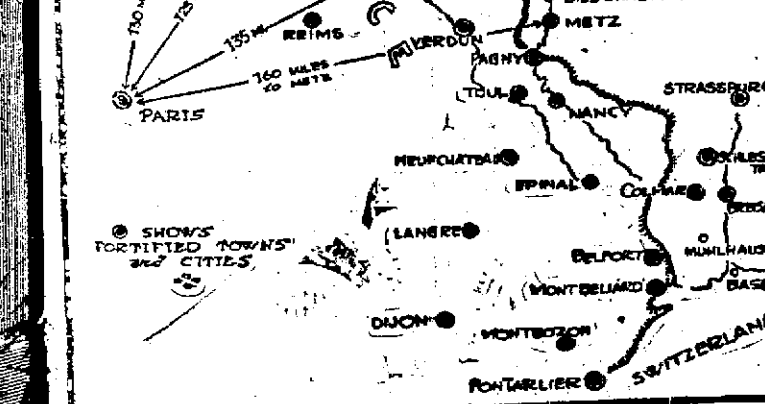

Drilling New Troops. Additional French forces totalling 50,000 men, will be ready for active service in about six weeks, as a result of the decision announced yesterday to call out the 1914 young men and the elder classes of the reserve.

The reservists will be equipped and ready for the field in a few days. Thousands leave city.

No official information regarding the military situation on the frontier has been made public up to noon today.

The unusual animation to be noted on the streets of Paris today has been caused chiefly by the thousands of persons who are preparing to leave the capital. Persons are departing in all directions.

Paris is in a panic as news comes of the continued advance of the German armies. The forces of the Kaiser have occupied the fortified city of Lille, 130 miles from Paris; Maubeuge, 125 miles from the French capital; and Valenciennes, about the same distance from Paris. They have also taken the fortified city of Longwy, and now threaten Sedan, which is 145 miles from Paris.

CIVIL WAR HEROES - GATHER AT DETROIT

Annual G. A. R. Encampment Attracts Crowds of Veterans—Thirty Thousand Expected.

DETROIT, Aug. 31.—All Detroit shook hands today with white haired heroes of the Civil war. More than 5,000 members of the Grand Army of the Republic and affiliated organizations had reached the city when the forty-eighth annual encampment was opened this forenoon. Every train and interurban car carried scores of old soldiers and their wives and daughters.

It was stated at G. A. R. headquarters that thirty thousand delegates are expected tomorrow.

Today was devoted to committee meetings at the headquarters of the G. A. R. and several of the associated bodies. The committee's work in executive session is to "get the convention ready for action," as veterans expressed it. It was hoped to complete the routine work today so that the committee members will be able to join the comrades and ladies tomorrow on boat rides. Several persons have been mentioned as special candidates to succeed Washington Gardner as commander-in-chief.

No veteran can hold the office two seasons in succession and sentiment has not favored the election of the man who has not been a department commander.

T. W. Blodgett, Ohio; David J. Palmer, Iowa; J. A. Summers, Indiana; Frank O. Cole, New Jersey; P. H. Coney, Kansas and Thomas H. Soward, Oklahoma, are candidates for commander-in-chief.

Relief Trains. Relief trains from Berlin to Rotterdam are taking care of the Americans gathered there from many points. The consul at Leipzig reports that "all messages from Americans may be dismissed" in his district.

Americans and all other foreigners are safe in Brussels, according to a message received today from American Minister Whitlock.

Japs In Trouble. Tokio, Aug. 31.—Announcement is made here that it has been learned more than fifty Japanese are unlawfully detained in Germany. The Japanese government is protesting through the medium of another power.

CONCLAVE CONVENES TO SELECT NEW POPE

Impressive Ceremonies at Vatican, Rome, Today Inaugurate Election of Successor to Pius X.

Rome, Aug. 31.—The conclave of the cardinals to elect a successor to Pius X, who died Aug. 20, was inaugurated today with imposing ceremonies.

The conclave is being held in the Sistine chapel in the presence of fifty-seven cardinals and their conclavists. There were present also members of the diplomatic corps, the knights of Malta and the aristocracy of the papal court.

The Sistine chapel was the scene of the election of a pontiff. The election of a pontiff is the most important event in the life of the church.

MAGAZINE WRITER SAW SIGHTS OF WAR

War Autos With Scythes Like Old Persian Chariots—Stars and Stripes Still Wave on Burnt Louvain.

LONDON, 1:55 p. m., Aug. 31.—Arno Dosch, a correspondent of the magazine "World's Work," who went into Belgium some days ago, arrived in London today from Brussels, which city he left last Thursday. Mr. Dosch said:

"The German auto trucks are a marvel. Equipped with scythes they move right through hedges and wire fences if the roads do not suit the driver. These trucks are heavily armored and they are able to resist anything except artillery fire. They enable the German forces to make forty miles a day. The number of these trucks seems unlimited."

"It is estimated that 300,000 German troops have made their way through Brussels and that 400,000 moved south of Brussels. The troops which passed through Brussels were later engaged with the British forces. Only a small detachment of Germans was left in the Belgian capital."

"Louvain is a pitiful ruin. I came through that city on my way out of Belgium and saw the smoking ruins. Only the big cathedral was visible above the smoke and that may have gone later. I was unable to go to that section of Louvain where the American colleges maintained by American bishops are located, but I have learned that they had displayed the American flag and that they had been spared."

Over Thousand Dead Reported in Twelfth Official Statement—Charges Against Belgians.

Berlin, Aug. 31.—The twelfth list of German losses was made public today. It contains 1,006 names, the total to the present time is given as follows: 1,143 dead, 3,326 wounded, and 1,781 missing.

No news from either of the German fronts has been given out up to midnight tonight.

As an evidence of the enthusiasm of the German people in the war, the German government announced that 600,000 volunteers have presented themselves for service.

Charges Against Belgians. Washington, Aug. 31.—The German embassy today received the following wireless message from the Berlin office dealing with the burning of Louvain by the Germans:

"A Rotterdam newspaper correspondent was an eye witness of the perfunctory attack of the population of Louvain on German troops. Snipers shot from concealment, killing one officer of the general staff who was found with his throat cut. In Louvain machines were found for making dum-dum cartridges."

Individual Title Is Being Shot For. Sea Girt, N. J., August 31.—The individual championship and the National Rifle Association rapid fire contests today engaged the attention of the marksmen and the spectators.

Twenty-fourth annual Sea Girt Interstate Shooting tournament which has been in progress since last Monday.

Tomorrow the Sadler, Spencer, Old Guard and Minute matches are set for the day following the tournament will conclude with the settlement of the Sea Girt championship and the Libbey and Wimbledon Cup matches.

Home Coming Day At Madison October 31st: Badgers Meet Chicago. (SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., Aug. 31.—The University of Wisconsin athletic authorities have set the date of the annual home coming as Oct. 31, the date of the annual game between the University of Wisconsin and the University of Chicago.

Many novel features are being planned for this occasion which will, it is expected, bring large numbers of Wisconsin alumni back to Madison.

It is now expected that delegations will arrive from Chicago, Milwaukee and other points where there are Wisconsin Alumni associations. Efforts will be made to enlist the services of a gala one. Plans are being made to induce Alumni associations to plan a number of novel stunts, and this promises to be one of the features.

FRENCH PREMIER SELECTS ABLEST MEN FOR CABINET

Object to Purchase of German Vessels for U. S. Shipping. France and Great Britain Oppose American Plan to Build Up Merchant Marine.

Washington, Aug. 31.—Great Britain has joined with France in objecting to the purchase by the United States of any German liners in connection with the plan to build up an American merchant marine.

At first England hesitated to protest, believing her action would be interpreted as placing obstacles in the way of a resumption of commerce to England.

After France had communicated her viewpoint to London, however, the British foreign office decided to urge the American government to buy neutral vessels to avoid complications.

No formal protest has been lodged by either France or Great Britain, but the situation has been outlined to the Washington government as of momentous importance to both countries.

France takes the view that the purchase of German liners now tied up in ports would be tantamount to giving Germany important financial assistance. England's position is that there is no precedent in international law for the purchase of a large number of ships during war from a belligerent nation.

Sheboygan Greeks Answer War Call. Fifteen Foreigners, Veterans of Turk War, Leave for Homeland—Entire Colony Is Ready.

Sheboygan, Aug. 31.—Fifteen Greeks from Sheboygan colony will leave this week for their native land in response to the third call of arms. Others will leave as soon as possible. A prominent member of the local Greek colony said today that there were 700 Greeks in Sheboygan liable for duty in case their country again becomes involved in war and at least 500 of them will go when called.

Those who leave this week are veterans of the recent war with Turkey. They will be joined in Milwaukee and Chicago by several hundred other Greeks and expect to sail for home before war is actually declared.

WOULD WIN TRADE OF SOUTH AMERICA

Frank A. Vanderlip.

President Frank A. Vanderlip of the National City Bank of New York has announced the plans of his organization for the capture of South American trade. These plans include not only the immediate opening of two South American branches, but the later establishment of several more, and, in addition to this, the creation in the South American commercial centers, and here in the United States, of avenues of organizations for the facilitation of business transactions and the dissemination of business information more complete and comprehensive than any which Germany, England or France, who hitherto have controlled South American foreign trade, ever have possessed.

STATE INTEREST IS CENTERING ON THE GOVERNOR'S BATTLE

PHILIPP AND HATTON THOUGHT TO BE THE FAVORITES.

SECOND CHOICE VOTE

Will Be Large Factor in Returns—McGovern and Bancroft Looked Upon to Fight Out Senator's Job.

In the primaries on Tuesday party candidates will be nominated for United States senator, representatives in congress, state officers and county officers. Municipal officers are nominated and elected in the spring. Owing to the agitation against high taxes and excessive legislative appropriations, the gubernatorial campaign has overshadowed that for the senatorship. There are six republican candidates for governor and two democratic candidates, and each has vied with the other in pledges of retrenchment and economy. It is therefore up to the voters to decide which candidate most strongly represents this predominant issue. The republican candidates for governor are:

A. H. Dahl, Westby; W. H. Hatton, New London; Martin Hull, Black River Falls; John C. Karel, Milwaukee; H. E. Roethlis, Fennimore; U. B. Utman, Hudson.

The democratic candidates are: John A. Aylward, Madison; John C. Karel, Milwaukee. In a general way it may be said that the personal platforms of all the candidates are much the same—all promising economical and efficient administration, some being more specific than others in the details of the administration they will put out or consolidate. All also insist that the state university must keep out of politics and be the servant, not the master, of the state.

Mr. Utman is making his campaign on the marketing question and the elimination of the middleman. Mr. Hatton, while insisting on efficiency and economy, also gives emphasis to the problems of social betterment.

On the republican side it is generally believed that the contest is between Philipp, Hatton and Dahl. The republican nomination is expected to go to Philipp. The Philipp men say that with the opposition divided, he cannot be beaten. They also say that he has made the anti-aggressive campaign of all the candidates, which is the one to win. On the other hand an astute observer expresses the opinion that the vote of Hatton, Philipp and Dahl will be close.

Dahl relies on the support of his Norwegian countrymen and of the radical La Follette followers. Hatton's supporters, on the other hand, come from all factions. They point to his long public service, to important legislation with which his name is connected, for the regulation of the railroads and other public service corporations, and to his valuable work on the board of public affairs.

Mr. Hull was speaker of the last assembly and has undoubtedly received large support in his part of the state. Mr. Roethlis is a newspaper editor and publisher, who has made his campaign on foot, and his friends say that his vote will be a surprise to his competitors and to the public generally.

The Democratic Campaign.
The feature of the democratic campaign has been the fierce fight made by Karel for the nomination. Judge Karel's opponent for governor is John A. Aylward of Madison, lawyer and politician. He, with Paul O. Hustling, his associate and candidate for United States senator, represents themselves as the progressive democratic candidates, and have bitterly denounced Karel and Thomas W. Kearney, candidate for United States senator, as reactionary. This of course they deny, and the campaign has developed much ill feeling and ugly words have been exchanged with charges that the Aylward men have used federal patronage. As to who has the advantage is doubtful. Predictions depend on whom you happen to talk with—an Aylward supporter or a Karel adherent.

United States Senator.
The republican candidates for United States senator are: Levi H. Bancroft, Richland Center; Timothy Burke, Green Bay; Charles E. Estabrook, Milwaukee; Francis E. McGovern, Milwaukee; Thomas Morris, La Crosse; John Strange, Oshkosh. The democratic candidates are: John A. Aylward, Madison; Paul O. Hustling, Mayville; Thomas Kearney, Racine.

The real contest in the republican primary, it is believed, is between Gov. McGovern and Mr. Bancroft. Mr. Morris is simply a "La Follette candidate," and the senator in the past has been successful in dictating candidates, as was shown when he tried to defeat Gov. Davidson by bringing out Lenroot. The other candidates, it is thought, will receive only scattering support. If there is to be a revolution in the republican politics of the state, as some believe, with a return to power of the old "regular," or stalwart republicans, Mr. Bancroft and the rest of the Madison convention ticket may be swept aside. That is the way the Philipp men figure it. But on the other hand, McGovern has the prestige of having served two terms as governor. His record as district attorney of Milwaukee, with his vigorous prosecution of grafters, has made him widely known before he was elected governor. His friends and managers can see nothing but his nomination. They say that Bancroft for senator will not pull as large a vote as Philipp for governor.

Of the democratic candidates, it is admitted that Mr. Kearney is by far the ablest and better equipped. He is one of the leading lawyers of the state, while Hustling, in general estimation, does not measure up in size and mental equipment to the position of a United States senator. But he has been widely touted as a "progressive" democrat. How far that will impress the chief contest is in the Sixth district, where there is a hot campaign between J. W. Titterton, Omro; ex-Congressman James H. Davidson, Oshkosh; Philip Lehner, Fond du Lac; and Michael H. Reilly, Democrat, Fond du Lac, but the republicans expect to recover it. In most of the other districts there are two candidates. The candidates are:

First—Henry Allen Cooper, Racine, Rep.
First—Calvin Stewart, Kenosha, Dem.

State Ticket Candidates.
Probably not one person in a thousand knows who the candidates below for governor of the state tickets are—another argument for the short ballot. Here are the republican and democratic candidates:

Lieutenant Governor.
Republican—Charles G. Collins, Eau Claire; H. H. Pearey, Washburn; C. F. Stout, Rice Lake; E. F. Ditcham, Baraboo.
Democrat—Willie Ludlow, Monroe; Melvin A. Hoyt, Milwaukee.

Republican—John S. Donald, Mt. Horeb, present incumbent; Nels Holman, Deerfield.
Democrat—Harry C. Truesdale, Berlin; Frederick Ravast, Plainfield.
Republican—Henry Johnson, South Madison, present incumbent; Paul Schardt, Oconto.
Democrat—Adolph C. Dick, Milwaukee; Joseph W. Fischer, Marinette.

Attorney General.
Democrat—W. C. Owen, Malden Rock, present incumbent; Frank R. Bently, Baraboo.
Democrat—Evan Evans, Baraboo; Charles A. Kading, Watertown.

Second Choice Vote.
One of the elements of uncertainty is the extent to which the second choice ballot will be used. In Rock county almost no attention has been paid to it. Throughout the state it is expected a large second choice vote will be cast. The supporters of the Philipp have no other candidates, and are expected to have a second choice. How far will they make use of it? That's the question. Here is the possibility that Philipp might be the nominee of the first choice votes and be counted. The second choice votes are counted. Philipp men recognize this possibility.

Returns Will Be Late.
Owing to the multiplicity of candidates and the second choice returns Tuesday night will be a decisive one. It is not expected that the returns will be made until Wednesday morning.

ENJOYED AUTO TRIP TO LAKE SUPERIOR

Judge and Mrs. C. L. Field Returned Last Evening From 1,500 Mile Journey.

To Duluth and other Lake Superior points and return by automobile, Judge and Mrs. C. L. Field, who arrived home last evening. The journey occupied nearly a month and some 1,500 miles were covered. Judge and Mrs. Field carried a camp and camp outfit and enjoyed the trip to the utmost. The trip was altogether a delightful one, although there were some disagreeable roads in the northern part of the state. According to the judge, highways of the country were not meant for automobile travel. There was plenty of mud and water encountered in addition to getting ready yesterday to brag of making the whole journey without the trouble of any sort but his hopes were dashed when he had a puncture yesterday afternoon within twenty miles of Janesville.

COUNTY SCHOOL BOARD HOLDS MEETING TODAY

Members of the county board of education met this afternoon at the office of Superintendent Antisdel to consider odds and ends of business. Prominent among the matters discussed was the re-organization of the Shopley school district through the addition to the territory of five different adjoining districts. The territory of the Shopley district affected were ordered sent out by the board. The members of the board have made a number of inspection trips to various districts for the purpose of looking into district boundary controversies, consolidation plans and the needs for new buildings.

Supt. H. C. Buell of the city schools will give examinations on Wednesday morning at nine o'clock at the high school, to all graded children who have been doing summer work.

TENNIS TITLE LIES BETWEEN THREE MEN

H. S. Lovejoy, Prof. J. S. Taylor, and H. F. Carpenter Left in Running—Other Notes of Week.

The tournament of the Janesville Tennis club which has been in progress for several weeks past on the Y. M. C. A. courts at the head of Milwaukee street has at last reached the final division. H. S. Lovejoy plays Prof. J. S. Taylor and the winner of this match plays H. F. Carpenter for the championship. These matches promise to be very interesting and exciting. On last Wednesday the local club was invited to send two players up to Milton Junction to play Frank Faine of Irving Park, who has defeated 10 at the junction, and who plays a very spectacular game, having a wonderfully swift serve. He defeated H. S. Lovejoy 6-1, 6-3, and was defeated by J. F. Carpenter 3-7, 6-3. On Sunday the final match was played here and was defeated by Carpenter 6-4, 6-3, and succeeded in defeating Lovejoy 7-6 after a very exciting set, the latter showing the effect of a 150 mile auto drive. A team from Lake Geneva motored over and had a friendly match with the local players, only succeeding in taking one match out of six. Taylor defeated Van De Bogert 6-2, 6-4. Faine defeated Atkinson 6-2, 6-4. Lovejoy defeated Atkinson 3-6, 1-6, 6-2, it taking three sets to decide the match, as was also the case in the next match; Carpenter defeated Dr. Halsey 6-2, 6-4. The doubles of Taylor and Kuebel were defeated by Van De Bogert and Atkinson 6-3, 4-6, 1-6. Carpenter and Lovejoy defeated Durkee and Dr. Halsey 6-2, 6-3, 8-6. Several ladies from Lake Geneva played the rainy weather and cheered the good plays of their team. A return match with Lake Geneva will undoubtedly be arranged.

CIVIC DENTAL CLINIC IN INITIAL OPENING

Eight Applicants for Work on Teeth Appear and Much Work Found to Be Needed—Movement Seems Successful.

Co-operation of Janesville parents of school children with the free dental clinic, recently organized through the efforts of the civic council, an organization adjunct to the women's civic league, began this morning with the opening of the experiment station at the city hall.

Eight applicants, all under sixteen years of age, appeared for work to be done on the teeth. Ten cavities were filled this morning and fifty more remain to be treated.

The clinic will be open on the first four Monday mornings, the first four Wednesday mornings and the first three Friday mornings of each month. Arrangements are being made to permit school children visiting the station during school time.

Indications this morning pointed to the success of the undertaking. Enough work was found to keep a single dentist at work for a week. It is expected that after the first feelings of bashfulness and fear of having the teeth examined, wear of many more dental patients will appear and keep the doctors who have donated their services busy throughout the entire year.

CAMPING PARTY RETURNS FROM LAKE KOSHKONONG

Sixteen campers returned home this morning after spending two very enjoyable days at camp. The party included the Misses Luella and Flora Robinson, Florence Douglas, Mae Duller, Florence Honeysett, Ben Badger, Miss Dobson, Lucine Jones, Edna Dodge, Ethel and Lois Clarida. They were chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Olsen of Janesville and Mrs. Percy Fenner of Milton.

MISS MATILDA DIRUD WEDS WASHBURN MAN AT BARABOO

Announcement of the marriage at Baraboo on August 26 of Miss Matilda Dirud, a student of mathematics at the Janesville high school for the past three years, to Gustave A. Lien of Washburn, was received here today by friends of the popular high school teacher. The wedding journey, will make their home at Washburn.

SETTLE WAGE CASE OUTSIDE OF COURT

Satisfactory settlement has been made in the case brought before Justice of Peace Lange by Floris Belnema against Ernest Bueger of Milton to collect a sum of money alleged to have been due Belnema's son for work on Bueger's farm. Arrangements without court proceedings were made between the parties interested.

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENT—Written, authorized and to be paid for at the rate of 40c per inch by the Estabrook Campaign Committee.

Charles E. Estabrook for U. S. Senator

Analysis of a candidate's worth or worthlessness to the state than the praise of friends or the blame of enemies. The public record is the safest criterion, therefore, for the voter to use in the choice of candidates. He appeals to his record as a public official to sustain his claim of appropriate training to fit him for senator. His six years experience as city attorney, four years attorney general, six years a member of the assembly, three terms on the judiciary committee, three terms chairman of the committee on cities, suggests the number of important public questions studied, and the extent of experience and knowledge gained. He refers to the several measures providing for farmers' institutes, admission to the bar, anti-wet shop law, tenement house law, budget law for cities of the first class, county and city parks, and pioneer work for the law creating a state bank examiner as evidence of constructive ability as a legislator.

Determining Current of Electricity.

There is a very simple manner, which is not generally known, of determining the character of the electricity which one may happen to want to make use of. It is well known that implements which are made for the direct current are not available where the alternating current is used, and in order to ascertain which kind of current is passing through the wires it is only necessary to hold a small horseshoe magnet up to one of the lamps. If it is alternating current the filament will vibrate, but if it is direct current the filament will lean toward the magnet.

CARDINALS NEARER TITLE BY TRIMMING ROCKFORD—11 TO 4

Janesville Team in Two Inning Rally Close Brilliant Game With Victory Over Rockford Highlanders.

Eighteen lusty blows, together with a few more, by Crandall spelled defeat for the Rockford Highlanders in their siege with the Janesville Cardinals at the Association Park diamond Sunday afternoon. When the Cardinals had stopped rampaging over the Rockford team in the sixth and seventh innings, the score stood eleven to four on the credit side of the ledger.

stretching it into a triple. Nordquest, shortstop for the Highlanders, was a classy ball player, for he took care of five chances without a slip and caught runners on fast and badly bounding balls. His whip to first was fast and sure and he caught the runner by throwing with the same motion with which he caught the ball. The best play of the game was Walsh's, Highland first baseman, grabbing a wicked line off Lee's bat in the fifth, which stopped Porter from scoring. Ryan's worst boot was in the fifth, when he dropped an aviation fly that allowed two to score. Sullivan attempted to cut off one run at the plate but his throw was four feet wide, from deep center.

Crandall, while he walked five, was not wild, for he would escape cutting the corner for a fraction of an inch and ump Koch refused to give him an edge. His curves were breaking, and he had a hook and after the first had the Rockford batters guessing. His rival, Maragi, pitched with an easy motion and threw with a deceptive amount of steam and breaks. Lee, formerly a Lake Shore league player, was at short in place of Heli, and Johnson was in right field in Neil's place. Lee's playing ability is well known to the fans, for he is a twenty-one jeweled player. Johnson did not have a fielding chance but cracked out a hit in the right place. Johnson played with the Fratonio nine until his residence in this city. Next Sunday the Cardinals will make a further bid for the title of both Southern Wisconsin and Northern Illinois when they meet the strong Freeport team at Freeport and his reputation is noteworthy.

To clearly settle the southern Wisconsin honors a winner will be scheduled between the Cardinals and the North Ends defeated the Van Cots Sunday and made the count, two and one, the Colts winning the first two games. As the Cardinals have trounced the North Ends three times this year, the outcome of this game is not hazy or doubtful.

Rddie Garrity, former catcher for the Cincinnati Nationals from the Dayton club. A jump from sandlot baseball to a strong minor team and then to the majors is a considerable feat. Garrity and Janesville fans hope that the Beloit man will stick with the big show, for there are few better fellows than Eddie Garrity.

WILL TILT BOXING LID ON LABOR DAY

Grand Opening of Roped Arena Sport on Labor Day, When Big Matches Will Be Staged.

On Labor Day, September seventh, the lid of boxing in the state will be actually pried off for the season with the schedule of many classy exhibitions between the leaders of the mitt. Wisconsin matches are both big and important and a good start in the opening matches will do much to relieve the game for this fall and winter.

The biggest match in the state is the round bout between Ad Wolgast and Tommy Gary at Benton Harbor, Michigan, Labor Day, when the former champ will attempt to regain his title. Wolgast, who has been in the ring in this battle and his big bout with Mandot at Milwaukee, declares he will say good by to the game and give up the gloves for good on his last fight.

Gary is in the nature of a test for Wolgast and if he rings true Ad will attempt to clamor over Mandot in his chase after Charlie White in a bout before a Milwaukee club. Ruchie Mitchell, the Milwaukee featherweight class when he gave Benny Chavez, the Mexican 122 pounder, an artistic lacer at Denver. The Denver fans thought so much of Mitchell that they immediately wanted to match the Milwaukee boy with western stars and possibly with Kibane, the champ. As Kibane will have his hands full with Johnnie Dundee on September 22nd, this match is out of the question and sporting scribes venture to state that Mitchell has not got enough punch to win the title. There is no faster or cleverer featherweight in the country, but it is said Mitchell does not carry punch enough to hurt his opponent. Kid Mahoney and Mitchell fought in Milwaukee, and Mahoney was awarded a draw.

Leach Cross, the New York dentist and come-back lightweight is again making a bid for the title, for the Ghetto champ is fast coming to the title six round route, near Hibbons, Minn.

Tomorrow night Harlem Tommy Murphy and Frankie Callahan, a new New York favorite, are slated for ten round bout. Murphy has been very active of late and his appearance against Mandot or Wolgast is being asked for by Milwaukee fans. Jimmy Clabby, leader and rightly named champion of the middleweights, is returning to S. A. and has issued a challenge to any of the boxers who dispute his right to the throne. Even Spike Kelly, a welterweight, is putting in his claims for this honor, and Clabby declares he will be ready for all of them. George Chip appears to be the best middleweight man to dispute Clabby's claim, and a match between the pair will probably result. George Chip will again meet Billy Murray, twenty rounds, at Frisco on September ninth.

Steve Ketchell, of the first of the Austrian invaders to return to this country, did not want for offers long, for he has been pitted against the best of the breed. Ketchell will battle Joe Sherman eight rounds at Battle Creek.

Down at Juarez, old Mexico, the fighting game is booming, for on Labor Day Frankie Fowser and Albert, two of the foremost welters, will clash in a bout of twenty-five rounds' duration. Fowser is on the trail of Spike Kelly, for the fans near the border line consider Kelly a wonderful fighter and a championship contender.

On Sept. 22nd two lightweights will battle for the featherweight championship. Kibane, while not declarations himself a 133 pounder, has been fighting a few of them, and Dundee for some time has been dabbling in and out of the lightweight class, whipping a lot of topnotches, including Grover Hayes. Both can make the 122 pound mark without a sacrifice. Reports show that both of these boxers will start training on Labor Day for their tilt at Los Angeles on the 22nd. Willie Beecher is likely to spring a surprise on the fight fans and in the Michigan fighter fails to come in the ring in this battle and his big bout with Mandot at Milwaukee, declares he will say good by to the game and give up the gloves for good on his last fight.

September 1—Harlem Tommy Murphy vs. Frankie Callahan, 10 rounds,

AUTOMOBILES COLLIDE AT MILTON AVENUE CORNER

A small runabout owned by E. W. Berger of Beloit, and driven by Miss Berger, collided with the right wheel of a large touring car of Oliver Grant at the intersection of Milton avenue and Glen street late yesterday afternoon. Miss Berger was driving the runabout off Glen street and in turning the corner too sharply struck the rear wheel of the Grant car. The wheels of the Berger automobile were sprung and the mud guards on the Grant car damaged.

How It Struck Elsie. Little Elsie, sitting in a street car opposite a man with twitching eyelids, whispered to her mother: "Mamma, that poor man has the hicups in his eyes."

THE WAR PROBLEM.

Dispatches this morning announce that a lone aviator flying over Paris dropped bombs and announcements demanding the surrender of the French capital. The French dispatches say the matter was taken very quietly by the citizens of Paris who did not appear disturbed at the occurrence. This must be taken with a grain of salt for the dropping of bombs from an airship so far from the scene of actual fighting as Paris must have been inconvenient to say the least.

Suppose the German reports of victories contain no exaggeration; suppose further, that the Germans within the next three weeks invest Paris; suppose, finally, that Paris capitulates after a siege no longer than the former one, which lasted 131 days.

What, then, will be the condition of things along about February 1, next? Will Germany be able to dictate a peace of value to her? It is difficult to think any German so stupid.

It is improbable that Russia, spared the brunt of the German attack through the concentration of effort against France, will be whipped by the time mentioned. It is also improbable that Great Britain will have lost command of the sea or that German commercial relations will have been re-established.

Paris looms large in the popular imagination, but its capture by many is no more likely to end the war than did the capture of Berlin and later of Moscow end the war against the first Napoleon. Great Britain, unless she loses her fleet, will remain practically invulnerable and be capable of maintaining great armies in the field. Russia will have great armies in the field. Russia is practically unconquerable, and her great Slav population believes it is fighting a holy war against the aggressions of the hated Teutons.

The war was a horrible blunder. It would have been avoided if Germany had accepted the offer that the question of what reparation, if any, is due from Serbia to Austria should be submitted to a European conference. If Germany has a statesman he will make use of any victories that may be gained to offer to accept the terms that were offered by Russia, France, and Great Britain a month ago.

RIGHT OF FRANCHISE.

Tuesday is election day and every citizen of Rock county should exercise the right of franchise and cast a ballot at the primaries. It is part of the duty of citizenship. The candidates are many, the issues various, but if the voter keeps in mind that the men selected Tuesday will be the party nominees at the November election, will have a voice in the formulating of a party platform, he will be aided in making his selection. The question of reduction of the enormous state taxes, the question of a safe and sane administration of state government, the divorcing of the state university from politics, are matters of vital importance. If you have any doubt as to the increase of state taxes take down your tax receipts for the past few years and note for yourself how much of the money you have paid in for state expenses, has actually been spent, for any real benefit to the taxpayer. It is not alone the question of who is nominated for governor, but what is more important, who is nominated for the state legislature, the law-making body of the state government. Mr. Phillips, the conservative republican candidate for governor, stands for lower taxes and for a sane administration of state affairs on a business basis, but if nominated and if not backed by the legislature to act as a check on the assembly. Consequently, choose as assembly nominees men who stand for these same things. In the first assembly district Whitte and Barless stand for this doctrine. Mr. Whitte would perhaps be the strongest of the two to send to Madison owing to his previous experience as a member of the assembly and his record while there. In the second district there is no question of choice between Winegar and Rosa. Winegar stands for lower taxes, stands for an able representative, while Rosa's record is one that shows he has created the present condition and that some of the obnoxious laws now on the statutes passed by the last legislature, received his sanction by his vote. Voters should be sure and make their selections carefully. The second choice votes are not needed if you stand for lower taxes as none of the state candidates really stand for this doctrine, and those that profess it now merely adopted it after the conservative republicans had brought it up as an issue.

LOCAL ELECTIONS.

The only real contest on the republican ticket in county affairs is the selection of a candidate for sheriff. There are four aspirants in the field—two from Janesville, two from Beloit. Two are ex-sheriffs; one has made the race at previous primaries, the other is a new aspirant in the field. It is the richest office at the gift of the people of the county and the man named Tuesday will doubtless be elected at the November election. He should be taken in making the selection. The man named should have the confidence of the people, have the confidence of the authorities he must work with in harmony with the officials of both cities and towns in he county to obtain the best results. Many are of the impression it merely

New York Finds A Way To Break War Prices

New York, August 31.—New York has found one way to beat "those food-vultures," as they have been appropriately called, who have grasped the great European conflict as a "reason" for boosting prices above the reach of New York's poor. The middleman and the jobber are to be done away with. There will be no more of a middle profit if the plan of Borough President Marcus M. Marks, of Manhattan, can be carried out. The plan put into effect in a preliminary way several days ago, has been so successful that there is little if any doubt that it will be a great success.

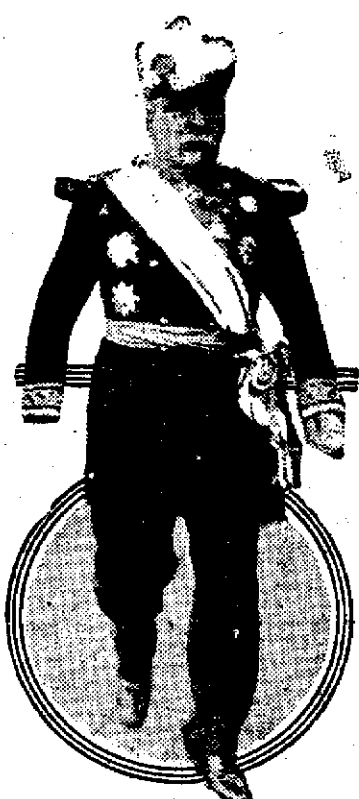

Here's the way Borough President Marks figures he can beat the "needless middle profit." He sent out a call to all farmers within a radius of fifty miles of New York city, telling them that he has prepared market spaces in four of the most congested districts of Manhattan.

To these places the people will go to deal direct with the farmers. The city is to boss the whole business. Comptroller Fendegast was so imbued with the idea that this was the best way to solve the "high food price scare" that he detailed a corps of his best men to act as market inspectors. The president's idea was born of the wise retrenchment policy Mayor Mitchell adopted when the European war first broke out. The board of estimate had just appropriated $42,000 for the development of the city's markets. This $42,000 had to be held back as one of the items in the retrenchment measures. Borough President Marks was told he would ultimately get the money, but that he'd have to wait for it.

Borough President Marks is not of the waiting kind. He bethought himself of the many open spaces in his borough which were lying idle. He thought they would be the very places for the temporary city markets he had in mind. He believed that the growers of food stuffs and the buyers could get along pretty well as these places even if they were not "improved." He therefore threw them open as markets.

The points now open as city markets are beneath the Manhattan and Queensboro Bridges, at Third avenue and East One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street, where the people have long wanted such a center, and at the Fort Lee Ferry. The farmers, from the opening day, have fallen in with the idea in enthusiastic fashion. The people, too, have shown their approval by flocking in hundreds and thousands to buy direct. The arrangements, is eminently satisfactory to everyone concerned. The farmer gets better prices from the consumer than he would from the middleman and the consumer pays less for a little more of the same goods than he would if he bought from the retailer. The gladdest persons in the world are those who are straggling back through New York from war-torn Europe. The same scenes are being enacted with the docking of each refugee ship. The marooned ones, bereft of clothing, baggage and forced out of the war zone, are nevertheless happy to be back. It is worth the price, they hold. Men and women who heretofore have never been satisfied in their voyages unless they occupied the pick of staterooms, are coming in second class, or even steerage—and never murmuring, so glad are they to get back. A special committee of men and women appointed by Mayor Mitchell meets each refugee ship to render aid wherever necessary. The thing for which many of the returning passengers are particularly grateful is that this committee cashes checks. Speaking of the war and returning travelers recalls that railroads, coast and steamship lines and travel resort boomers in the United States are looking forward to their most successful season next year. They figure that the war will continue long enough to make the European travel next season impossible, or, if the war is ended, that conditions will not be comfortable, and that American "cures" and resorts will get the European voyagers and their money. Meanwhile the losses to the steamships companies continues piling up. Typing up here of the liner liner Vaterland means the Hamburg-American line is losing interest in that $10,000,000 every day her earning power is destroyed.

WAR PICTURES

The latest available motion pictures pertaining to the European crisis will be presented at the Majestic as follows: those secured by Hearst-Selig will be shown every Monday and Wednesday, and those secured by Pathe Freres, of Paris, will be shown every Tuesday and Friday. These two great organizations will not leave a stone unturned in their effort to get a faithful photographic record of the war.

MAP SHOWS ADVANCE OF RUSSIA'S ARMIES

This map shows the line of advance of the czar's huge armies. In northwest Prussia a Russian force, advancing through Eydtkuhnen, Gumbinnen and Insterburg, is now threatening the fortified city of Konigsburg, which is on the way to Berlin. Other forces, crossing the border near Johannsburg, menace the great fortified camp of Allenstein and the city of Osterode, whither the Germans are retreating. A still larger force is advancing through Russian Poland against Thorn and Posen. A huge Russian army on its way to Vienna is about to capture Lemberg, the capital of Galicia, in Austria.

Extra! Don't Buy Flour! Buy Bread Instead

Flour prices have jumped more than a dollar a barrel, but Colvin's Bread has not advanced.

Save the flour you now have on hand. Don't bake it up into bread, but keep it for cakes and pastry.

Remember, while other food prices are soaring sky high, Colvin's bread has not advanced.

It costs you no more today than before the war. It is by far the most economical and wholesome food you can put on your table.

Cut down your living cost by eating more Colvin's bread, and you'll be healthier and happier.

Your grocer can supply you.

BRODHEAD WOMAN IS VICTIM OF ACCIDENT

EARLY THIS MORNING

Mrs. Jennie Clark Has Head Badly
Torn in Rod Connecting Cream
Separator and Gasoline Engine.

Mrs. Jennie Clark, residing on a farm just south of Brodhead, met with an accident this morning, that may cause her death. While watching a cream separator at work, run by a gasoline engine some twenty feet away, she attempted to go underneath the rod connecting both machines, when her hair was caught on a set screw in the rod, tearing the scalp off her head, from the base of the brain over the top of the skull to the left ear and completely tearing off her eyebrows.

The victim was brought to this city on the morning train and taken to the Mercy hospital in an unconscious state. Her condition this afternoon showed no improvement. There is but a slight chance for recovery.

THEFT OF CLOTHING FROM OREGON STORE

Seven Men's Suits and Quantity of Wearing Apparel Carried Away
Early Sunday Morning.

Seven suits of clothes, blue serge material, an overcoat, several raincoats, several pairs of trousers, vests, suits of underwear and a quantity of other clothing constituted the haul of thieves at Oregon Store, Sunday morning. The store was closed at four o'clock Sunday morning according to the word received by the local police department. Entrance to the store was secured through a rear door, the glass of which was broken open. One of the robbers must have suffered a cut on his hands as garments which were handled in the store were stained with blood. Some sort of vehicle must have been used to carry away the haul.

BOYS OF COUNTY V. M. C. A.

ALL CANADA AFIRE WITH PATRIOTISM

Joseph M. Connors Says It Is Not Safe to Contradict a Resident Across the Border on Merits of the War.

Joseph M. Connors returned this morning from an extended western visit. He returned via the Canadian Pacific and saw a bit of the war spirit that is being demonstrated across the border by the Canadians. Everywhere flags of England are flying, everyone wears little flags in their button holes and it is not safe to express any opinion other than that England is right and will win, said Mr. Connors today. "The enthusiasm is wonderful. Everyone is giving something. A bushel of wheat, a few dollars, but always making some sacrifice. In Winnipeg the other night they put up at auction the donation of a bootblack, a street car ticket. It was bid in after a spirited bidding at $1,000 by a Mr. Chandler. Canada is doing everything it can to aid England. Troops are traveling towards Toronto as fast as steam cars will take them and no delay is shown in their share in producing. The soldiers are guarding all the railways and all trains are started by the mounted police who have charge of transportation. Canada will do more than its share in sending food supplies and soldiers as everyone is wild about the war." Mr. Connors also visited in Idaho, Portland, Seattle, Tacoma and Vancouver. He stopped in Motone Iowa and other Canadian points on his way back.

CLAIMS GIRL LURED AWAY BY "SLAVERS"

Father of Michaela Girl, Who Was Arrested Here, Asks Investigation of Daughter's Run-away.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., Aug. 31.—Bearing all the marks of the white slave's tactics, the case involving the luring away from home of 16-year-old Genevieve Michaela of this city, will be vigorously investigated by her father. He has also written a letter to Senator Howard Teasdale, calling his attention to the circumstances and indicating that he believes it the duty of the government to investigate the underground wires of the white slave's tactics. The woman who lured the girl away to Rockford gave her name as Martha Thompson. She started to return to Madison with the Michaela girl, but jumped from a moving train in the vicinity of Janesville. The father brought Genevieve back from Janesville on Saturday. The girl is now in the Thompson girl's home. Police in southern Wisconsin have been asked to search for the Thompson girl as charges may be pressed against her.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

THE OTHER day a neighbor died. She had been walking along the sidewalk when a passing automobile threw up a stone which bruised her face. In three days she was dead of blood poisoning. The absolute tragedy of it all lay in the fact that that afternoon she had been asked to make one of a party of automobilists and had refused.

"John hasn't had his car very long," she explained, "and I have three little children dependent upon me. I do not feel that I should go anywhere I might be in danger."

What is more, for years she had ordered her life with this same view in mind, not to incur danger! She had denied herself pleasures; she had stayed home while others went out in automobiles and sailing boats because automobiles and power boats were a source of danger!

So comes of danger! Where are they, or rather where are they not? How can we escape from them? True people do die in automobiles and in motor boats. Likewise they die in beds and in bath tubs. Drowning is both unpleasant and frequent, but it is no less pleasant and frequent as near frequent as apoplexy.

For months, because of an unquestionable element of danger, which now and then claims a victim, this woman had denied herself certain pleasures in which thousands of people indulge daily with absolute impunity. She had been careful of her children, stepped in and snatched her away.

The doctor, consulting her husband, added that it was too bad she hadn't gotten outdoors more because her blood would have been in better condition and less liable to infection.

To blame her for wanting to avoid all danger for her children's sake would be unkind and unjust. But one cannot help pitying her for a loss of perspective and a blind, senseless devotion against the one great force before which man stands helpless; a system which was a source of deprivation to herself and an exasperation to her husband and her friends.

The last few years of her life she did not really live; she guarded herself against death. She watched over a hundred entrances through which death might come. She knew the danger that lurks in a yawn, in a cough, in a sneeze, in a single word. She watched with fascinated eyes the match with which her husband and his friends lit their after dinner cigars. She protested, laughingly taxed with her deep concern over the match's final disposition, that she wasn't going to "be burned like a rat in a trap."

And so it went. She watched over a hundred entrances through which danger and death might come upon her; but death, free to use thousands of entrances over which no mortal can hope to stand guard, stalked down upon her nevertheless.

Life no longer presented itself to her in friendly guise. It was but death, wearing many masks. The tragedy of that! For, as Stevenson says, "So soon as prudence has begun to grow up in the brain, like a dismal fungus, it finds its first expression in a paralysis of generous acts. The victim begins to shrink spiritually. To be otherwise is to ossify, and the scruple monger ends by standing stock still."

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young girl of nineteen years of age and as yet have been unable to attract young gentlemen friends. My girl friends consider me a "loner" and I have been away to college and do not feel entirely devoid of attractions. Why have I been so unfortunate?

(2) My mother and I disagree on the subject of her intended marriage. She is fifty-two and is engaged to a man of twenty-two. I don't like him and she is too old for him?

(3) From your letter you seem to have a large amount of common sense. I would not worry about my friends who are still young, and perhaps the boys are attracted by a more frivolous type. Look them over and see if they are worth while cultivating. If they are, invite a few girls and boys in once a week. Make it as pleasant as possible for them by having good "stunts" and "acts," and I am sure they will look forward to coming again.

(4) Marriage with such a diversity in the ages are not apt to terminate happily.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a girl of seventeen, weigh 150 pounds and am five feet six inches tall. How can I reduce my weight?

(2) What will prevent feet from perspiring?

(3) What will remove freckles?

(4) I have a boy friend who is very good to me and I want to give him a birthday present. What would you suggest?

(5) You will grow thinner as you grow older, dear. Do not try to reduce your weight, for it is a natural thing for young girls to be fleshy at that age. Fat reducers are injurious, and do more to ruin the health than to remedy matters.

(2) For perspiring feet: Take ten parts, alum, two parts. To remedy the odor, use a teaspoonful of chloroform, add a teaspoonful of water in which you bathe your feet. Do not use soap in the solution. Bathe the feet frequently, and change the hosiery daily.

(3) I know of no reliable preparation that can be applied every night will help. Protect the face as much as possible from the wind and sun.

(4) If you are sure that he would rather not feel under obligations to you, you might give him a box of home made candy, or a tie.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) There is a young man who has been interested in me for a while now. How can I find out if he likes me or loves me?

(2) Many fellows want to take me out, but I always refuse them, because I am only sixteen and think I am too young. Am I doing right when I refuse them?

AN ANXIOUS FRIEND. (1) The fact that he appears interested in you ought to be enough to satisfy you of his friendship, my dear. If he is old enough to have sense, he probably thinks you are too young to have a regular beau. So don't worry.

(2) I think you are right, my dear, not to run around too much with the boys. Keep them all as good friends, but let them understand that you are not going to be silly. Talk them over with your parents and when a respectable young man wishes to entertain you, and your parents are willing, it will do no harm to let him take you out now and then, provided he gets you home early and safely.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Do you know of any "Butterfly Farms"? Are there any in California? If so, could you put me in touch with them?

PEGGY. (1) The only butterfly farm in California, with which I happen to be familiar at the present time, Peggy, is owned by Miss Kimball McLaughlin, San Jose, California. I don't know if you can get the address, but I think it will reach her. She doubtless knows of other farms, which she might tell you about.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING. A little soda and water put in a pan with fish and onions have been cooked in and boiled for a few minutes, will remove all odor and taste.

Never throw away cake, no matter how dry—but the next time you bake a custard, slice it on top before putting into the oven. This makes a delicious caramel crust.

If your shoe polish becomes hardened in the tin do not moisten with water, but milk.

THE TABLE. Preserved Huckleberries—Wash and drain the berries and weigh them. To each pound allow three quarters of a pound of sugar and the juice of half a lemon. Sprinkle the sugar over the berries and stand aside over night. In the morning drain off the juice, add the remaining sugar and lemon juice with a cupful of cold water. Place in a kettle and stir to quickly dissolve the water. Bring syrup to boiling; skim, add the huckleberries and let simmer gently until the berries are tender, but not broken, which will take about thirty minutes. When the preserves are done put up in glasses or fruit jars and when cold seal up.

Spiced Huckleberries. When the berries are washed and to every eight pounds allow four pounds of brown sugar, a quart of vinegar, two level tablespoons of cloves, two of allspice, two of cinnamon and one of nutmeg. Make a syrup of the sugar, vinegar and spices, stirring until the sugar is dissolved. Let it boil up, then add the fruit and boil gently for half an hour. Put up in glasses and seal when cold. Canned huckleberries gives a delicious combination.

Jelly Vegetable Salad—Carrots and peas or string beans, or tomato and cucumber can be used for this. Make a strong lemon jelly, gelatin, the omitting the sweetening. Turn jelly into cups and let stand till jelly begins to harden, then turn in the cooked vegetables, chopped, and the rest of the jelly; let harden till firm. Slice the jelly form with a slice of hard-boiled egg.

Thought Cows Were Mourning. It was Tommy's first day in the country, and everything surprised him. About sunset one day a herd of cows returning from pasture came following their leader slowly and solemnly in single file along the forest path within sight of Tommy and his mother. After watching them for some time in silence the little city boy exclaimed: "Oh, mother, is it a cow funeral?"

cool the jars and pack away. Chicken canned in this way keeps well and retains the flavor that nothing but young chickens possess. As the reader asks about ironing. As there seems to be so many different opinions on this work it is rather a wise proceeding for the individual to work out her own problem along lines that lie nearest to herself. What work like a charm in one kitchen would be very impracticable in another home and to learn by experience how to eliminate every unnecessary step in doing one's housework is to learn economy of the best brand. Men spend days and days studying out ways and means concerning their work. Women work steadily without reason in many instances, and then they complain at the hardness of their lot. When you hear a woman talk in this strain do you not often think that so many of our domestic conditions and then turn and rail on when we rail at the conditions surrounding us in our homes, we are—in a way—railing at God, for the best training for a heavenly home is a happy home on earth. Can a woman be happy that is run in a slipshod manner?

In the first place, do as little ironing as possible. All our clothes have to be washed but many of them do not need ironing. So many women think every piece must be pressed. That's foolishness, for the time spent in ironing your sheets could be used so much better. This in justice to the family as well as yourself—for if there is anything that can go ahead of ironing in between fresh sheets that have never met the iron—that smell so fresh and strong of all outdoor things, it is the children's every-day rompers which will never need the iron and the baby clothes, work aprons, even dresses, that are made by the popular peasant pattern are very easy to press, as they lie flat on the board.

Place your board near the stove, pull the clothes-horse up on one side, have the basket of clothes on a chair within easy reach and put your stool at the right spot.

Can do with small expenditure of time and labor work that to many women is a time-taking, nerve-racking job. No life is larger than the thing it loves—make your home a place of peace. Learn how to do your work!

Charles, the Tale-Bearer, Begins to Harvest His Bitter Fruit. Tom, when he learned of the ice-cream freezer incident, and Charles Williams' part in it was scarcely able to suppress his feeling of elation. His impulse was to explain at once to Peggy he had known all along that her dressy friend wasn't much of a regular fellow.

But on mature deliberation he saw the tactlessness of that. Peggy, he was sure, had been pretty thoroughly cured of Charles Williams and any words of his would only plague her. And so he decided to sit quietly by and watch without comment the further progress of Peggy's affairs of the heart.

The next evening Mr. Williams appeared at the Gray veranda as usual and as usual and as usual, and perhaps a little more brilliant of habit than ever. A slight abatement in his air of assurance was noticeable when he saw Bill Burbank with Peggy on the porch.

Mr. Williams' annoyance at the discovery of his hated rival was only increased when he found that he was having a minor part in the evening's conversation. While the other two did not exactly ignore him, they managed to guide the talk through channels that offered him small chance to join.

This was distressing to Mr. Williams. It was a new and unpleasant experience for him to find that he was not the center of interest. Nor could he understand this behavior in Peggy. He felt that he would be happier if Bill Burbank would turn to whence he came. Alone with her he was sure he could charm her with his polished as before.

And when Bill Burbank hastily arose here and explained the necessity of his early departure, Charles seized the chance to expostulate with Peggy for treating him so. Was it nice of Peggy to snub him as she had through the early part of the evening, he asked, and how could she find any pleasure in the company of that Bill Burbank?

Peggy caught a faint little yawn, "you were saying something, Mr. Williams," she asked absent-mindedly.

Mr. Williams put on his hat and said good night. And that closed the chapter as far as he was concerned. (Continued.)

Rare Works of Art Stolen

Twenty-five thousand dollars worth of art were stolen from the church of San Moissino, Padua, Italy, recently. Early in the morning, the thieves broke into the church and carried off two magnificent paintings by Giovanni Battista Tiepolo. The pictures hang in the side chapels on either side of the high altar, and were wrested from their frames in such a hurry that portions of the canvas were left on the frames.

MRS. WILLIAMS' LONG SICKNESS

Yields To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Elkhart, Ind.:—"I suffered for fourteen years from organic inflammation, female weakness, pain and irregularities. The pains in my sides were increased by walking or standing on my feet and I had such awful bearing down feelings, was depressed in spirits and became thin and pale with dull, heavy eyes. I had six doctors from whom I received only temporary relief. I decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial and also the Sensitive Wash. I have now used the remedies for four months and cannot express my thanks for what they have done for me.

"If these lines will be of any benefit you have my permission to publish them."—Mrs. SARIE WILLIAMS, 635 James Street, Elkhart, Indiana.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

WANTED Rags!

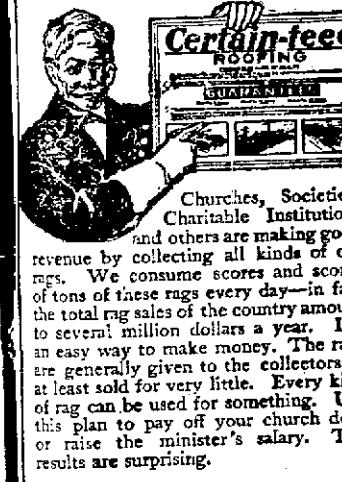

Millions of dollars' worth of Rags collected annually

The General says:

My output of Certain-teed Roofing has grown to such enormous proportions that I am having difficulty in getting enough rags of good grade to supply this demand.

I also need a lot of rags of lower grade for making my standard quality roofing, and also a still lower grade for making my Competition quality roofing.

I will pay the best market price for roofing rags anywhere in any quantity. If they can be shipped in carload quantities and in assorted grades, we can have them shipped direct to any of our big mills, but if in smaller quantities or unassorted, we will arrange with one of our packers or sorters near you, to buy your rags and prepare them for our use in the different grades.

Churches, Societies, Charitable Institutions and others are making good revenue by collecting all kinds of old rags. We consume scores of tons of these rags every day—in fact the total rag sales of the country amount to several million dollars a year. It's an easy way to make money. The rags are generally given to the collectors or at least sold for very little. Every kind of rag can be used for something. Use this plan to pay off your church debt or raise the minister's salary. The results are surprising.

Certain-teed ROOFING

is the highest quality possible to make. It is guaranteed in writing to last 5 years for 1-ply, 10 years for 2-ply, and 15 years for 3-ply, and this guarantee is backed by the world's largest roofing mills.

There is a dealer in your locality who handles Certain-teed Roofing and our other wide line of goods. If you consult him he will be glad to give you full information about our goods and will quote you reasonable prices on all of them. Be sure the goods are made and guaranteed by us.

As the millionaire boasted of the rich man's means for evasion of the law, Reynolds, who had expected this counter, stood with a look of cynical indifference, but as the full significance of Brand's closing threat struck home, he paled and stepped back with hands pressed hard to his temples as if stunned.

"You wouldn't—you wouldn't do that!" he cried.

"You were the one who was threatening me," Brand answered.

Bob rushed again toward his tormentor, but was checked by a sudden opening of the door.

"Good night, Mrs. Brand," they heard Jane say, and Reynolds stopped midway.

CHAPTER XXII

The Collapse.
Mrs. Brand did not leave the car, for she did not know her husband had gone to the Reynolds' home. He had merely pleaded a business engagement as his excuse for leaving the party, for he thought that to say he was going to see Reynolds would have prompted more than cursory inquiries from both the young women. As soon as Jane was out of the machine the chauffeur turned and sprinted towards the Brands' house, so he was out of call by the time the door had been opened for her and she saw Brand within.

Her entrance could not have been more accurately timed if she had chosen the exact moment of it, for Brand's truculent tactics had driven her husband to desperation and the unwritten law that prevents attack when one is in the other's home would have held good no longer.

Reynolds recovered himself sufficiently to smile a welcome and inquire why Mrs. Brand had not accompanied Jane in.

"She certainly would have come if she had known Mr. Brand was here," his wife answered.

She stood regarding the two men in a quizzical way, scarcely concealing the surprise she felt after Brand's rather unconventional leave taking on the grounds of business. Bob went to her and took her hand.

"Jane, we've got company tonight. You can't guess who."

"Company?" she asked incredulously. "As late as this. Indeed, I can't guess. Who?"

"Dick," she echoed. "Here? Where?"

"Yes, he's here now. Up in the den."

"I'll call him," she exclaimed with real enthusiasm.

"No, let me," Bob suggested. "He may have put up for the night there by this time. I'll see."

With a foot on the stairs he turned. "Mr. Brand and I have been discussing some more business, Jane, and this time I want you to know about it from the start—as a partner. And I think you had better hear Mr. Brand's side of it now."

He was half way up the stairs. He stopped and looked significantly at the millionaire.

"If I must talk to Mrs. Reynolds, tomorrow will do," Brand said. "It's late and she must be tired. So on I."

But Reynolds only kept backing up the steps.

"What has happened?" she asked excitedly.

"Nothing irreparable, Mrs. Reynolds," the millionaire answered suavely. "But your husband is in a frame of mind—I might say a mental condition that makes it impossible for me to appeal to him either by argument or a straight statement of facts. He is in a bad hole, and now, when he's driven into a corner through his own astute blundering, he's not only turned traitor to you and me, but he's a drunkard besides."

"Mr. Brand!" Jane exclaimed, turning red with indignation and paling with apprehension at the sudden brutality of his words.

"Oh, I don't mean that alone," he answered, indicating the half emptied bottle. "It's his brain that's drunk. No matter in what direction he turns he's intoxicated. He has lost his perspective; his sense of proportion. He tangles everything he goes into and now he has ruined this opportunity I gave him. He won't listen to me. May be he will to you. But whatever happens," he added in a patronizing way, "I want to save you out of the crash. I don't want to see him take you along with him."

"Take me with him?" she said in dazed tones. "What do you mean? Oh, please don't mince words, Mr. Brand. Tell me what has happened."

"Well, then," he answered almost defiantly. "Your husband is broke."

"Broke?" Jane exclaimed, rising and sinking back as suddenly to the divan. "You mean he's bankrupt? Penniless?"

"Yes, flat. He's been gambling in the street without my advice and today he went a little too far—decidedly too far," he added, as he thought of the overdraft that would have to come out of his own pocket. "More than that, Mrs. Reynolds, he's been drinking hard and doing things that a man is likely to do under such circumstances."

"I am sorry," he said condescendingly as he turned.

Reynolds appeared suddenly on a landing of the stairs.

"Good night, Brand," he said. "Through with your chat?"

"Quite through, I think."

"I'll see you in the morning, then."

The millionaire looked up, his hand on the knob of the door.

"Yes, you can see me in the morning," he answered, "and your wife can tell you for just how much. Good night."

He slammed the door behind him as he went out and Bob moved slowly down the stairs and crossed to his wife's side.

"Jane," he began, "you may think it strange that I left you with Brand at this time to hear from him the things he no doubt has told you. Don't condemn me too quickly. Our talk this evening was not a success. I have laid my cards on the table and he has pretended to. But he doesn't play the game that way. He has said one thing to me and has probably said another to you and I want to know what he has told you."

"But, Bob," she answered—and she looked at him through mist dimmed eyes—"why has he told me anything? Why, if this—this terrible thing has happened—haven't you told me or warned me? Brand said you are ruined."

"I am," he broke in quickly. "He told you the truth, but did he tell you how I am going to remedy it?"

"He said you had asked for more money—blackmail. Oh, Bob," she cried, clutching at his hands, "it isn't true, is it?"

He pressed her hands, but answered doggedly:

"Yes, it's true. That's the word for it—blackmail, and I'm going to have it."

She drew back and looked at him through her tears, startled and afraid. Then she glanced involuntarily at the table.

"Oh, don't think I'm drunk," he said stubbornly. "I know what I've done and what I'm going to do now."

"But you can't do it; you shan't," she exclaimed. "Brand doesn't owe you money. If you've lost yours we will have to suffer for it, not Brand."

Her words acted as an irritant to the sore.

"So, it's Brand, not me," he answered bitterly. "That's what I wanted to know; to know how I stand between you two. You mapped out my line of march once, but not again. Jane, if you side with Brand against me this time we are done, that's all. We don't seem to do team work very well and I can go it alone."

His tone, so cold and hard as his words, truly frightened her.

"Bob—Bob, dear," she cried, "don't talk to me that way. You're not yourself. You don't know what you're saying."

dam and that I have given him only forty thousand. He demands the other sixty or vows he'll tell everything. Now is that blackmail, or is it not?"

Jane had no reply. The sudden force of Brand's attack had left her inert.

"I'm not talking this way to you of my own volition," he said. "Your husband desired that I tell you everything—everything that a partner should know. I am not through, Mrs. Reynolds. I want to state my side of it. Here it is: For your sake, and for yours alone, and because of Mrs. Brand's fondness for you, I'll square this thing at the bank. But that is all I will do. I gave your husband $40,000 in good faith and he accepted it as such. Perhaps if he had asked for one hundred thousand at that time, I would have granted the request, but not now when he demands it under duress. You can tell him that. I guess that's your end of the partnership, according to his view. That is all. We are losing good sleep."

"Then I won't keep you any longer," answered Jane with dignity. Something of her old mastery and determination had returned. She arose and held out her hand. She shuddered slightly as he took it, and regretted that she offered it. The man who had branded her husband as a criminal, only smiled and stepped toward the door.

"I am sorry," he said condescendingly as he turned.

Reynolds appeared suddenly on a landing of the stairs.

"Good night, Brand," he said. "Through with your chat?"

"Quite through, I think."

"I'll see you in the morning, then."

The millionaire looked up, his hand on the knob of the door.

"Yes, you can see me in the morning," he answered, "and your wife can tell you for just how much. Good night."

He slammed the door behind him as he went out and Bob moved slowly down the stairs and crossed to his wife's side.

"Jane," he began, "you may think it strange that I left you with Brand at this time to hear from him the things he no doubt has told you. Don't condemn me too quickly. Our talk this evening was not a success. I have laid my cards on the table and he has pretended to. But he doesn't play the game that way. He has said one thing to me and has probably said another to you and I want to know what he has told you."

"But, Bob," she answered—and she looked at him through mist dimmed eyes—"why has he told me anything? Why, if this—this terrible thing has happened—haven't you told me or warned me? Brand said you are ruined."

"I am," he broke in quickly. "He told you the truth, but did he tell you how I am going to remedy it?"

"He said you had asked for more money—blackmail. Oh, Bob," she cried, clutching at his hands, "it isn't true, is it?"

He pressed her hands, but answered doggedly:

"Yes, it's true. That's the word for it—blackmail, and I'm going to have it."

She drew back and looked at him through her tears, startled and afraid. Then she glanced involuntarily at the table.

"Oh, don't think I'm drunk," he said stubbornly. "I know what I've done and what I'm going to do now."

"But you can't do it; you shan't," she exclaimed. "Brand doesn't owe you money. If you've lost yours we will have to suffer for it, not Brand."

Her words acted as an irritant to the sore.

"So, it's Brand, not me," he answered bitterly. "That's what I wanted to know; to know how I stand between you two. You mapped out my line of march once, but not again. Jane, if you side with Brand against me this time we are done, that's all. We don't seem to do team work very well and I can go it alone."

His tone, so cold and hard as his words, truly frightened her.

"Bob—Bob, dear," she cried, "don't talk to me that way. You're not yourself. You don't know what you're saying."

"I know exactly what I'm saying," he answered. "And I mean every word of it. Brand fooled you once and he's fooled you again, but he'll find I haven't been so dull a pupil as he thinks. He game to all right if it's played to a finish, and that is just what I am going to do—play it to the end. He used me when I was useful and thought when the right time came he could throw me aside. I was weak enough to get into his meshes and I'm strong enough to get out. He found stock and trade in your credulity over on Staten Island and he thinks he can rely on you again. Did he, tell you how I lost my money—the very last of it?"

"In the stock market."

"Yes, but did he tell you I invested on the advice of his broker? Did he tell you that he won a lot of money on the same stock? Did he?" he repeated as she sat staring at him in silence.

"He didn't say anything about himself, Bob."

"No, of course, he didn't. He didn't say anything about you, either. I suppose. He didn't tell you that when he framed it up with you for us to take that money from the cement deal that we were committing a felony and that you were a party to the crime as much as any of us. He didn't tell you that if I talked and we went to jail that you would go along with us. He didn't say that, did he?"

Reynolds paced the floor and his voice rose to almost a hysterical pitch.

"God," he exclaimed, as he stopped and faced her, "I almost believe he's convinced you that I'm a criminal and he's a saint with a double ringed halo!"

She had reached the end of her endurance and stood up quivering with resentment.

"You have no right to abuse me this way," she cried, "and I won't stand it. You know that I only tried to find a place for us among decent people and give you the opportunity to provide it."

Dinner Stories

While traveling through Alabama a young salesman was one day forced to dine at a farmhouse. Not being very well satisfied with his meal of corn-bread and bacon, he asked if he might have a glass of milk.

"No," replied his host. "Ah don't reckon you'll find any milk around here since the dog died."

"Since the dog died?" echoed the stranger. "What's that got to do with it?"

"Why," replied the farmer, "who do you-all reckon's goin' to go an' fetch the cow?"

"Yes, I may say I have an ideal husband."

"An Apollo for looks, a Chesterfield for manners," rhapsodized the girl.

"Those things don't count in husbands, my dear. Mine stays fairly sober and brings most of his salary home."

RESINOL WILL HEAL YOUR SKIN

Stops Itching Instantly, and Clears Away Unpleasant Eruptions.

No matter how long you have been tormented and disfigured by itching, burning, raw or scaly skin humors, just put a little of that soothing, antiseptic Resinol Ointment on the sores and the suffering stops right there! Healing begins that very minute, and your skin gets well so quickly you feel ashamed of the money you throw away on useless, tedious treatments.

Resinol is also an excellent household remedy for pimples, dandruff, sores, burns, bruises, boils, and for a score of other uses where a soothing, healing application is needed. It contains nothing of a harsh or injurious nature and can be used with confidence on the tenderest or most irritated surface. DAILY ROAD BULLETIN.

Highway Commissioner Moore makes the following statement:

"The four mile road north of Janesville is being heavily graded and is unsafe for travel."

"Grading is started on the Footville road, Town of Plymouth."

"The Hanover road in the town of Rock and also the Hanover-Orfordville road in the town of Plymouth are likewise badly torn up and are impassable. Take the upper Footville road instead."

"Work is completed in the town of Beloit and the Happy Hollow bridge has been installed. This gives a clear track between Janesville and Beloit on the east side of the river."

"The work is also completed in the towns of Milton and Harmony and also in Fulton, making good traveling for all points north of Janesville except that considerable grading has been done by the town of Janesville on the Indian Ford road, which is quite slippery in wet weather."

"The Afton road, town of Rock, between the city limits is closed."

Crushed gravel and travel must be kept off. Work is begun on Main and Janesville streets, village of Milton. This will also be crushed gravel macadam.

"The main Janesville road in town of Janesville is under construction."

"The Evansville-Janesville road in the town of Porter is under process of completion. Take the Magnolia road between Janesville and Evansville."

"The road in Spring Valley are nearly completed. They are also completed in the towns of Union and Clinton. Work is under way in the town of Turtle on the Milwaukee road. The state line road has been completed. It would be advisable to take the Shopiere road between Beloit and Clinton."

"The Delavan road in the town of Bradford is impassable for anything but light travel. Notice will be given from time to time of any changes."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Take this in liquid or tablet form as a tonic and regulator

Mrs. Kate D. Richardson, of Beasley, Essex Co., Va., says: "I confess it is a pleasure to testify to the wonderful curative qualities of Dr. R. V. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. For some years I suffered greatly with weakness peculiar to my sex. I was treated by several physicians but gradually grew worse. One of my friends told me of the great results of your 'Favorite Prescription.' I went to the drug store and got a bottle, and after taking it, with the 'Pleasant Pellets' I commenced to get better. I never knew what happiness was, for I was always sick and complaining and made others as well as myself unhappy. So you see what a debt I owe you!"

JANESVILLE WILL OBSERVE "STRAW HAT DAY" WITH DUE AND HILARIOUS CEREMONIES

Tomorrow Is September 1st And It Behooves All Persons To Discard The Tried And Trusty Summer Lid For A New Fall Kelley

MAYOR FATHERS SANCTIONS THE OBSERVANCE

When in the course of human events it becomes necessary to wear a straw hat after September 1st in Janesville, warning is hereby given that the wearer does so entirely at his own risk and upon his own responsibility. For, be it known, it has been writ in the Books of Things as They Be that His Most Pious Honor, The Mayor, Jas. A. Fathers, has sanctioned Tuesday, September 1st, 1914, to be semi-officially known as Hat Day. On this day the Straw Lid will, with due and fitting ceremonies, be lifted.

The good old straw lid, Kelly, dicker, bonnet, sky-piece, chapeau, tile, head-gear, or whatever you may feel moved to call it is doomed. The pronouncement has gone forth throughout the length and breadth of the city, and it must go on that day.

It may have protected you faithfully from the heat of the summer sun and the rigor of the drenching rain. It may have stuck to you like a brother for weeks and months. It may have grown sore and yellow in your service, but it's to go, and Tuesday is the day on which it goes.

Count not upon the manner of its going, either. If you have the temerity to wear it on that day, Word has been received that there is a deep, dark plot now being hatched whereby every straw hat making its appearance on the streets of the city Tuesday or thereafter will be crushed. It will be not only frowned upon severely, but it will be jammed, smashed, broken, torn asunder and mangled by the cohorts of the Anti-Straw Lid Klan, an organization formed especially for the purpose of furthering the sale of derbies and soft hats. So beware! Beware! Be circumspect, and be advised!

Be circumspect, and be advised!

case by this newspaper. It is not known just what form the straw hat ceremonies will take, but Chief of Police Champion has heard of the coming affair and it is probable that all patrolmen on duty will be ordered to suppress the proceedings should they become too boisterous. The chief issued the following warning last week which should be observed:

WARNING!

To all who may so far forget themselves as to wear a straw lid on and after September first.

SPECIAL ORDER NO. 23.

All law-abiding citizens of this fair and glorious city of Janesville, Wisconsin, are hereby warned that if they persist in the wearing of a straw lid, panama, kelly or any other head gear that represents summer, on and after Tuesday, September 1st, they do so at their own risk. Advice has come to this most august body that the Anti-Straw Lid Klan has vowed dire vengeance on all wearers of such sky-pieces on that day. I will protect all to the best of my ability of this tried and trusty force but the impossible is not possible and vice versa.

By order of his Most August Majesty
CHIEF OF POLICE
Peter D. Champion.

One merchant is going to install a big bell in the entrance of his place of business, and whenever a straw lid passes his place tomorrow the bell will toll out its strident clang, calling attention of everyone to the breach of the Straw Hat Rule.

There will also be a number of other novel and amusing methods used by various persons to mark the day, but no matter what is done, it will all be accomplished in a spirit of fun, and rowdiness will be severely frowned upon.

The advent of real New Hat Day in Janesville will, more than anything else, mark the transition of this city from the chrysalis of an overgrown village to a full-fledged metropolis.

HATS FOR EARLY AUTUMN WEAR AWAIT THE WOMEN AT THE LOCAL HAT SHOPS

Dame Fashion Sets Today As Final For Summer Creations, And Those Who Would Be Up-To-Date Must Obey.

ARTISTIC DESIGNS ARE NOW BEING SHOWN

Ladies, lay aside that rusty straw hat and follow the example of thousands of your sisters throughout the country by donning your new autumn millinery tomorrow.

Tomorrow will be the first of September and the season for straws, no matter what style or shape they may be, is closed. Dame Fashion has set her immutable law and you must obey.

In anticipation of the day the milliners throughout the city of Janesville have laid in complete stocks of the very latest creations in autumn millinery and they are now at your service for inspection. It is the opinion of milliners throughout the city, that never before in their experience have the autumn styles taken such artistic designs as those of the present year.

The general inclination for this year's hat has been to create a soft, flowing, and graceful design, but this year it seems that the milliners of Janesville have actually considered the wishes of Mesdames and the new lines show a marked inclination to the artistic rather than the extreme.

The colors are most harmonious and there are but few styles alike. Each shape from a cursory inspection seems to have an individuality all its own and there is little to fear of duplicates in this city at least.

Your fathers, brothers, husbands and sweethearts will also obey the day by donning their summer straws and donning their fall headgear and it behooves the fair sex to follow their example.

Milliners throughout the city report the advance sale of fall millinery is already bidding fair to break all records and they are now working overtime in many shops in order to keep up with the demand for the autumn offerings. One shop alone is almost sold out and has been compelled to send to Chicago for an additional supply of new styles.

It was prophesied Saturday by one of the milliners that tomorrow morning's sun on an utter dearth of straw hats. How near this prophecy comes to the truth remains to be seen.

But the immutable law of the land is that all straws must go on September First and tomorrow is September First.

One must be strong-minded to resist the temptation of purchasing one or more of the new fall chapeaux. There are so many cleverly designed shapes and it is astonishing how they are becoming to the majority of women.

Elegance plus simplicity describes the new hats. The shape counts first—the trimmings next and the poise third. They are either tilted from the back by means of a bandeau or attain a coquettishness by being tilted on the side, over to the right or left.

When you choose your hat scrutinize it from every angle. Try it on while you are standing so as to get a good view of "tout ensemble." Scarcely any trimming is needed to make a cluster of twelve black wings at the center of the crown.

Some of the smaller hats are shell-shaped, while others are minus brims. Velvet and plush form many of the hats. Felt, tulle, taffeta and all-ribbon hats lend themselves to this reason's dictation.

Narrow velvet ribbons and wide silk ribbons in dashing loops are always a safe trimming. A gray finish is given by a bit of turquoise ribbon.

It is better to possess at least one black hat, for you will notice the pendulum of fashion swings back to the inevitable black hat. For daytime the dark color tones are liked best.

Feathers have long reigned supreme in the wintry months, but now they have gone to share their kingdom with silk and velvet flowers. The blossoms that bloom in the millinery flower field are both large and small.

A small hat with high-indented crown had stubby little shaded quills placed every whichway around the crown. Tailored bows of tulle ribbon were directly in front and back.

A purple hat had large velvet two-toned peepies topping the crown. Here and there were little bows of velvet ribbon. The brim of this hat flared suddenly at each side and was singularly becoming.

The secret of the stylish hats seems to be that the garniture should look as if it was about to fall off, and was not fastened on securely.

A hat with an irregular outline had a soft, high tam o' shanter crown with spreading ornaments of paradise wreathed around it. A soft bow joining the separating groups of aigrettes was across the front, and it was tilted nearly over the right eye.

A soft turban shape of moire was trimmed with three burnt ostrich feathers, one at each side and one directly at the back, curving outward.
